ESTABLISH A REPUBLIC IN RUSSIA

LATE DEVELOPMENTS IN REVOLUTION INDICATE DYNASTY OF ROMANOFFS HAS COME TO AN END.

CZAR'S THRONE VACANT

Grand Duke Michael Will Become Emperor Only Upon People's Approval.—Full Power to Committee of Duma.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] London, March 17.—Grand Duke Michael has accepted the throne of Russia conditionally on the consent of the Russian people, according to a statement received here today from a semi-official Russian news agency.

A dispatch received from Petrograd last night, filed at 5:30 p. m., bore the same news. Grand Duke Michael had abdicated in favor of Grand Duke Michael at 2:30 yesterday afternoon, the Grand Duke himself had abdicated, thus bringing the Romanoff dynasty to an end. The foregoing dispatch, which is from the Petrograd telegraphic agency, a semi-official institution, was sent from Petrograd today.

Shows Differences.

Advices direct from Petrograd yesterday said there has been some difference of opinion between Duma leaders and representatives of the workmen. The latter wished to leave undecided the question of the form of Russian government until after holding the constitutional assembly, whereas the Duma group, fearing dangers to the country in the absence of a definite government, have put forward a temporary government, under the name of "Committee of Duma." The latter group reported to have placed on its acceptance of the throne, indicate that it had been decided to erect a temporary central authority, so that the country's energies in prosecuting the war, but at the same time the ultimate decision has been left with the people.

The declaration made by the Grand Duke on his acceptance of the throne, as given out by the news agency, reads as follows: "Responsibility has come to me as a voluntary request of my people, who have transferred the imperial throne to me during a period of extraordinary difficulties and with unprecedented popular disturbances. Moved by the thought which is in the minds of the entire people that the good of the country is the only aim, I have accepted the throne, and I have accepted the throne only if this be the will of our great people who by a plebiscite organized by the representatives in a constituent assembly, shall establish a new form of government and new fundamental laws for the Russian state."

Subsequently, invoking the benediction of our Lord, I urge all citizens of Russia to submit to the provisional government established upon initiative of the Duma and invested with full plenipotentiary powers, until such time as the constituent assembly shall be convened, and to follow with as little delay as possible on the basis of universal direct and equal and secret suffrage, shall be convened as to the form of government to express the will of the people."

Grand Duke Michael Alexander, accepting the throne, does so only with the consent of the Russian people, who should by a plebiscite establish a new form of government and new fundamental laws for the Russian state.

House of Romanoff at End. Petrograd, March 16, via London, March 17.—The autonomy which has been granted to the Russian people, according to the latest news, is a new form of government and new fundamental laws for the Russian state.

Following on the heels of this startling development, came the rumor of the death of the late emperor, which, however, was later found to be without foundation. At the same time, the revolutionaries, who had been active in the beginning of the revolution, are now being suppressed by the new government.

Within four hours after the abdication of the Grand Duke Michael, the revolutionaries became active in the streets of the capital, and the crowd in the street had secured ladders and began to tear the imperial insignia from the windows of the palace and the buildings on the main thoroughfare. In a short time all the emblems of the old empire literally lay in ruins.

Crowds Cheer News. In anticipation of the news bigger crowds than ever filled the halls and grounds of the Tauris palace, awaiting official confirmation by the duma committee of rumors which had excited the people to fever pitch during the last twenty-four hours. When the news at last leaked out from the committee rooms, prayers who had been hanging soldiers and working men, suddenly interrupted their discourses, and shouted the news to the crowd below them. Indescribable confusion reigned in the streets for a few moments, such as never before had been known in those stately halls, continued until men and women were forced to flee from their places.

Leaders Still See Chance to Prevent a Strike

These men are the leading figures in the big rail meeting now in progress in New York city. Warren S. Stone is at the head of the Locomotive Engineers; W. G. Lee is grand chief of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; W. S. Carter is president of the Locomotive Firemen's Engineers; Elisha Lee, assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania railroad, is spokesman for the railroads.

news of the revolution was greeted by the Russian soldiers in the trenches with outbursts of cheering. London, March 17.—Major General Zein, governor general of Finland, has been arrested by the commander of the Baltic fleet on order of the provisional government, according to a Reuters' Petrograd dispatch. Senator Borovitinoff, vice-president of the economic department of the Finnish senate, also has been arrested.

P. I. Roditcheff, leader of the constitutional democrats in the duma, has been appointed minister for Finland and directed to proceed at once to Helsinki. Long a Commander. General Zein has been governor of Finland since November, 1909, and has been noted for the drastic methods used to suppress any popular outbreak. Roditcheff has been prominent in Duma affairs since the Russian parliament was created. He has been a vigorous advocate of the rights of the Jews, and was once denounced as a mad man by the emperor.

Exports Troops. Haparanda, Sweden, March 17.—General Ignatieff, commander of the troops in Finland, has issued a proclamation exhorting the troops to support the new government. With only five votes in its favor, the Hart bill, which would prohibit the voting on the saloon question, wet or dry, often than once in five years, and which raised the number of signatures in order to submit these questions to a vote of the people from 10 to 25 per cent, was killed.

A bill making illegal any gifts to charitable institutions not made three months before the death of a person making the gift, was sent to engrossment.

FRENCH SHOOT DOWN ZEPPELIN AIRSHIP

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Paris, March 17.—A Zeppelin has been shot down in the English Channel. All of the crew were lost.

In an official report on the occurrence says that the Zeppelin brought down was the L-39. The incident occurred, adding the statement, in the region of Compiègne at 5:30 this morning.

The Zeppelin was sighted shortly before dawn and was reached by French anti-aircraft guns at a great height, probably two miles. The airship caught fire, and the wreckage, with the burning bodies of the crew, fell out side Compiègne.

The Zeppelin is 45 miles northeast of Paris and is close to the battle front, which the Zeppelin had presumably crossed. The following official statement was given out: "A Zeppelin was brought down this morning at Compiègne by anti-aircraft artillery while flying over the town at a height of 5,500 meters. It remained in the air for a moment and then fell, striking a guarded wall and broke in two. "All the bombs were thrown overboard during the fall. They dropped on vacant ground. Most of them did not explode. Several of the crew jumped and were crushed to death."

Air Raid on London. London, March 17.—An air raid last night was the first visit of Zeppelins in many months, and it seemed to have been expected, as it failed to cause any excitement even among the home-going theatergoers. The raiders were favored by a dark and moonless night.

The foregoing dispatch indicates London was attacked by Zeppelins. At half past twelve last night an official communication was issued in London stating that an air raid had taken place over the southern counties of England and was still in progress. A further communication, it was said, would be issued during the morning, but this is presumably being held up by the censor.

German Retire Further. Berlin, wireless to Bayville, March 17.—A further retirement of the German forces on the western front, between Salzig and St. Pierre Vaast, and also between Beauvraignes and Las Signey, was announced today by the war office.

ALL EFFORTS DIRECTED TO CALL TRUCE

ENCOURAGEMENT HELD OUT LATE THIS AFTERNOON THAT IMMEDIATE CRISIS MAY BE DELAYED.

WILL ASK LEGISLATION

Secretary Lane is Unable to Give Definite Information at Three O'clock Regarding Outcome of Conference.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] New York, March 17, 3:45 P. M.—Secretary Lane of the Federal Mediation Committee at 3:40 o'clock this afternoon announced that the railroad strike had been postponed for forty-eight hours.

Mr. Lane gave out the statement: "After due consideration of all requests and applications regarding the national situation, the board of railway managers and the railroad brotherhoods have agreed to suspend negotiations in the hope of adjustments necessary for avoiding a nation-wide strike." Messages to general chairmen of brotherhood grievance committees were immediately placed on the wires by the brotherhood leaders.

Roads Unable to Yield. New York, March 17.—The railroad presidents adjourned their meeting at 12:30. No statement was made by any of them, but it was reported their position was that they could not yield to the brotherhood demands while the court's decision on the Adamson law was still pending.

New York, March 17.—The prospect that a great railroad strike, due to the failure of the mediation committee to reach an agreement, would be declared, brightened this afternoon when shortly before two o'clock, Secretary Lane, member of the mediation committee of the council of national defense, announced the situation was encouraging.

Lane Prepared Statement. Mr. Lane said he would have an important statement to make at three o'clock. The announcement came soon after the mediation committee had finished its deliberations. The prospect of the strike going into effect tonight, the switchmen of his union will ignore it and continue at work. Exempt Michigan Central. From an authoritative source it is learned that to avoid international complication the Michigan Central line does not include the Michigan Central System running into Canada, and no strike is contemplated on the Michigan Central at present.

Cancel Passenger Trains. Boston, March 17.—The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad Kickerbocker limited, due to leave for New York at 11 p. m., was cancelled today on account of the strike situation. The last parlor car from Boston was attached to the train leaving at 11 p. m.

To Turn Down Orders. Columbus, O., March 17.—Engineers, conductors and trainmen of the Cincinnati, Lebanon and Northern Ohio railroad, a company of the Pennsylvania road, this morning informed Superintendent Geer of the southwest system of Pennsylvania that they would refuse to obey strike orders.

HEAVY SNOWS STOP TRAINS IN NORTH

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Duluth, March 17.—Last night a heavy snow fell during a forty-mile blow from northeast and drifts here today are twenty feet high. Suburban and street car service is infrequent.

Railroad schedules are demoralized. Northern Minnesota was cut off from the rest of the world from three p. m. yesterday to noon today. Iron Range passenger trains were kept going, but Twin City and Chicago service was suspended. One Northern Pacific passenger train, No. 62, struggled through from the Twin Cities last evening and was the only one to make the trip.

The Southern Railway reported a block in Chicago to Duluth, and the Michigan Copper company is reported in dispatch as being cut off. The Canadian Northern sent out a train last night and nothing since it was said.

BOMB KILLS TWO IN BOSTON COURT HOUSE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Boston, March 17.—Two persons were killed by an explosion in the Suffolk county court house late yesterday. The two dead men, from pieces of their clothing picked up, were believed to have been soldiers. Their bodies were torn to bits. Court Officer Richard Murphy, who was near by, was struck by flying metal, but not dangerously injured. Judge Loring was holding a session of the superior court in a room adjoining that in which the explosion occurred. Some thought an assassination had been attempted. The police story is that there had been a premature explosion of a bomb or bombs while in the hands of two men who were carrying them to court. This theory would place the responsibility on the men who were killed.

Impossible to Make Forecast of Result If Men Quit Tonight

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Chicago, March 17.—Unless the unexpected intervenes, the greatest railroad strike in the history of the world will send St. Patrick's day, 1917, down in history with a significance hitherto unattached to the occasion.

At six o'clock tonight, the first steps destined, unless checked, to paralyze the commerce of the country, to be taken by 400,000 members of the Brotherhood of Train Service employees to attain, as the unions claim, the eight hour day in train service. According to the railroad managers, it is a full stand-and-deliver order for more pay amounting in the aggregate to untold millions, a burden which they claim is too great to be borne out of present revenues.

Unable to Foretell Conditions. The situation confronting the country is so big and so unusual that no one is able to predict confidently just what it will do or just how the strike order will work out. The railroads do not know what men will be working tomorrow, what the intervention of Congress, unless intervention president is successful today. Both sides are relying on loyalty of the men, the brotherhoods, to the membership obligation and principle of unionism, the railroads to family feeling of other employees' self-interest engendered of the better paying position, and patriotism, which may be secured by waiting out in the face of a grave international situation.

Appeal to U. S. Court. Jacob L. Dickinson, receiver of the Rock Island line, and William J. Jackson, receiver of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, today applied to Judge G. A. Carter, United States district court here, for protection of their respective properties and of such employees of the road as may remain in service, or shall be employed.

Judge Gives Assurance. Judge Carpenter gave prompt assurance that this would be done to the full extent of power of the court. United States district judge today sent telegrams to the attorney general for active cooperation. The receivers planned to have all employees remaining in the service with official badges.

made to handle business with limited crews. Reports of dissension among the switchmen have come from St. Louis, Kansas City and other southwestern points, and in this city Daniel G. Smith, chairman of the switchmen's union, announced that if the strike goes into effect tonight the switchmen of his union will ignore it and continue at work.

Exempt Michigan Central. From an authoritative source it is learned that to avoid international complication the Michigan Central line does not include the Michigan Central System running into Canada, and no strike is contemplated on the Michigan Central at present.

PRESIDENT MAY ASSUME AUTHORITY

WILSON MAY TAKE DRASTIC ACTION IN PUBLIC'S INTEREST IF WORST FEARS ARE REALIZED.

STATEMENT PROMISED

When Congress Convenes in Extra Session He Will Urge Legislation to Deal With Railroad Crises.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Washington, March 17.—When Congress convenes in extra session in April, President Wilson plans to renew his recommendations for a railway legislation, which failed at the last session.

Lacks Legal Authority. Legal experts of the government have informed the president that there is no specific law giving him authority to use drastic steps but it was realized that in times of national crisis, power of the president is such that he can do almost anything in the public interest.

In this connection a conversation between Mr. Wilson and former President Cleveland years ago, was recalled today. At the time, Mr. Cleveland, who had seen a railroad strike in Chicago, and Mr. Wilson were discussing at Princeton, a threatened strike in the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Cleveland remarked that if he were president, he would stop the strike. Mr. Wilson asked him under what authority. Mr. Cleveland replied he did not know but he would find the authority.

Government agencies were at work today on eleven-hour plans for preventing a disastrous stoppage of railroad transportation, and the mediation efforts of council of national defense fail to avert the strike called for tonight. The government's authority to prevent such an obstruction by strikers of interstate commerce of mail transmission was clear, and legal officers searched further for laws of precedence to prevent effect of preventing strikers' right to force the operation of railroads in an emergency.

WOULD STOP STRIKE BY BILL IN EQUITY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Philadelphia, March 17.—A bill in equity which has for its purpose to prevent a strike of the railroad brotherhoods from calling a strike of the railway employees within the state of Pennsylvania, was filed in the federal district court here today by attorneys representing members of the four brotherhoods. No judge was in the federal building at the time, and although the bill is officially on file, it will not be taken up for consideration unless the papers are signed by a judge and orders issued enforcing the men.

Layton P. Bradley, attorney for the men who filed the bill, said the action would "take the usual course." He apparently is making no efforts to find a judge.

U-BOATS TRY TWICE TO SINK "LAPLAND"

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] New York, March 17.—Two attempts were made to sink the White Star line steamship Lapland, on her last outward voyage from this port, beginning February 14th, which arrived here today from Liverpool.

The first attempt occurred just off the Irish coast when the submarine, which appeared in the ship's path, was sunk by a patrol boat. The second attempt, a few hours later, was near the mouth of the Mersey river, when a torpedo was observed passing the Lapland's bows.

CRITICS PLENTIFUL IN TIMES OF CRISIS

USHER RECALLS DISSENSION AROUSED AGAINST LINCOLN IN COMPARISON WITH PRESENT.

MASS MEETING CALLED

Patriotic Gathering in Milwaukee Tonight Will Be Addressed by Senator Hustling and Congressman Lenroot.

By Ellis B. Usher.
Milwaukee, March 17.—The days are so eventful now that it is not easy to select the most important even for special comment. But the theme uppermost in every mind and considered from some angle by every individual is the imminence of action. To the opening days of our great civil war there are many reminders in the present confusion of tongues as to public and private duty. Perhaps, for instance, the ministers who are now numerous on the side of peace and so active in inaugurating movements to put the arm of President Wilson in a sling do not know that Lincoln, whom all now extol, had much similar and well intentioned contemplation. In his own city of Springfield, where the gospel in 1860, but three voted for Lincoln, and a majority of them were openly pro-slavery men, strange as that may sound today.

Critics of the president will also find that Lincoln issued on April 15, 1861, his proclamation calling for 75,000 volunteers, and in the same message called on Congress to meet in extra session July 4. Fifty days later, meanwhile he proclaimed a blockade of southern ports, suspended habeas corpus and took other important measures. All these measures were constitutional, necessary and proper under the president's authority as commander in chief of the army and navy. The analogy between that situation and the present one should not be difficult for any American to understand.

Milwaukee Mass Meeting.
In the hurry of passing events the grand meeting which will be held in the Auditorium in this city tonight will be a thing of the past before some people read these lines, but it is a fittingly safe to say that the building, the seating capacity of which for tonight is exactly 8,820, will not hold half the people who are anxious to attend, and thousands will undoubtedly be turned away. The men who telegraphed to the president on Feb. 27 started a spontaneous endorsement that has received over 10,000 individual signatures and the numbers pledged by organizations will approximate 30,000 more. The Poles alone claim 15,000 and they are but one element of the general uprising. So many are anxious to treat Milwaukee's meeting lightly, or to consider her loyalty doubtful, Senator Hustling, Representative Lenroot, Guy D. Gott, former United States district attorney, F. X. Zwietlik, will be the speakers. August H. Vogel of the Foster-Vogel Leather company, one of the leading business men of this city will preside. Mr. Vogel put off a trip south that was well arranged in order to be present.

Citizens' Training Camp.
The work of the Citizens' Training Camp association is rapidly rounding into such shape that the state, as well as Milwaukee, will soon be hearing from it. As I have said before, the object of this organization is to get one man from every thousand population in Wisconsin to attend a civilian training camp for one month in summer. Milwaukee contingent will be 430 men. Other cities and towns can figure their quota on the same basis. Wharton Clark, executive secretary of the Central Division, with headquarters in Chicago, spoke here in Milwaukee last Monday to three audiences, showing motion pictures of the camps last summer and urging their cause. The Milwaukee normal school pupils heard him speak and 106 of them were interested enough to ask that further information be sent to them from the main office in the Federal building in Chicago. Mr. Clark said, however, that the opening camps in a campaign to get $5,000 here in Milwaukee and $5,000 in Wisconsin to carry on the recruiting work for the camps. A local secretary has been secured and as the local Federal building is already overcrowded, offices are being sought elsewhere. Some money has already been raised. The committee have already agreed to let certain of their men attend one of the camps for a month next summer. As the federal government will pay all expenses, including railway fares, the volunteers once the employers can be persuaded to the idea. The state will soon be canvassed from branch organizations of the Milwaukee committee in various cities in the state, so that the whole scheme will be before every one in the state. U. S. army officers regard the camp as the most hopeful step towards preparedness against war that this country has ever seen. Any inquiries sent to Wisconsin Division of Military Training Camps, will receive prompt replies, will reach their proper destination.

H. C. of L. Reports.
Our local investigating committee that has not discovered the reasons for the high cost of living will, under the leadership of the fact by making majority and minority reports. The Socialist members are sure municipal markets would be a panacea, and other members don't think they would solve the problem. Very generally throughout the country investigations are equally inconclusive. One thing that interested me in talking to the committee is the fact that the retailers offer no cash discounts to customers for prompt payment of monthly accounts. He seemed to think this was the rule. "On the contrary," he said, "the retailers here will sell for cash, to be collected on delivery, who do make a reduction in price and one such house I know has a very large trade among all kinds of people. The result of collecting just as much from prompt paying customers as from delinquents, or those who are slow, is, of course, to fine the prompt housewife for being prompt by making her carry the slow one. Here is a spot where the women can do something if they work unitedly."

Accident and Health Insurance.
Naturally enough the Old Line Life Insurance Company of America is well known as a life company. It has the word life in its name. It is also an accident and health insurance company, and a growing successful one. Last year this department increased its business over 30 per cent. due partly to the fact that assistance Secretary P. J. Tharion is devoting a great deal of time to it; but he insists that the chief reason is the liberality and excellence of the policies his men are selling. He tells me that the company's contracts are giving more and more to the policy holder and therefore giving him better protection than ever for the money he pays. That sounds practical and it will appeal to insurers and to men who want to sell that kind of insurance, to whom Mr. Tharion can offer excellent territory. "The well man knows not of his health, but only the sick," says Carlyle.

Short Notes.

Maj. Douglas McArthur, son of the late General McArthur, occupies the responsible position of censor of news for the war department at Washington. Wisconsin young men are making good in large responsibilities.

FATHER RYAN TALKS ON ST. PATRICK'S LIFE

Beloit Priest Gives Address at St. Patrick's Church at Memorial Service to Patron Saint.

High mass was celebrated this morning at St. Patrick's Catholic church at half past ten o'clock by the Rev. Dean E. E. Reilly, Father Ryan of St. Thomas church of Beloit, who preached the sermon on the subject being "The Life of St. Patrick." He told of the pious life led by Ireland's patron saint in preparing himself for his mission to Europe. Father Ryan has traveled over a large portion of the old world and throughout the course of his sermon gave many vivid descriptions of the beautiful island of Erin. The choir sang several Irish anthems.

MASONIC RECEPTION A GREAT SUCCESS

Over 750 People Enjoy Dinner and Ball of Local Masons Held Last Evening.

Janesville Masons will remember the evening of March 16th as the big night. The Masonic Reception and Ball held at the Masonic Temple and Assembly hall last night was a success far beyond the expectations of the most sanguine. Notwithstanding the extremely bad weather, the Temple was filled almost to capacity, and the ability of the banquet committee was taxed to the utmost. Although many remained at home on account of the weather, fully seven hundred and fifty people were entertained in the banquet room. A four course dinner was served, beginning about five-thirty and continuing until nine o'clock. During this time a concert was given under the direction of George Hatch. The orchestra contained some of the best talent in the middle west, and their work met with hearty applause and warm approval.

At nine o'clock the guests began leaving the Temple and gathered at Assembly Hall. Dancing began about nine-thirty and continued until one o'clock. The new dances were introduced from the front room. A four course dinner was served, beginning about five-thirty and continuing until nine o'clock. During this time a concert was given under the direction of George Hatch. The orchestra contained some of the best talent in the middle west, and their work met with hearty applause and warm approval.

The music for the dance was under the direction of Mr. Hatch. The orchestra, including the same talent that played at the Temple concert. It is a matter of regret to the Masonic fraternity that they were not able to write prior to the reception their immediate families, but as the event proved, there is not a place in the city large enough for such an undertaking. With the splendid success of last night the Masonic Reception and Ball will probably become an annual affair.

NEW RUSSIA HAPPY SAYS CZAR'S GUARD

LIEUT. SWARTZKOPPENSKY, ESCAPED FROM SIBERIA, TELLS OF REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT.

JEALOUSY IS A FACTOR

Deposition of Grand Duke Nicholas as Head of the Army Enkindles Bitterness Against Czar.

That the present revolutionary movement in Russia is probably due in no small part to the jealousy existing between the royal house and Grand Duke Nicholas, is the opinion of Lieutenant M. Swartzkopensky, former officer in the czar's bodyguard and escaped Siberian exile, who is in Janesville to lecture on conditions in Russia and upon his own adventures. "Of course," declared Lieutenant Swartzkopensky, "the time for some such radical movement in Russia was ripe. The people are not the same as they were twenty years ago. It is impossible to keep an entire people in darkness all their lives, and this is what the ruling class has tried to do. There have been many revolutionary movements in Russia that we over-here never hear of. For years the radicals have been gaining in power, but they lacked a leader to carry out their uprising to a success. This was Russia's opportunity. In the Duma the people have a true leader. The Duma is a reality now, rather than a mere paper formality, as the czar endeavored to make it.

Of doubt whether Germany had any hand in stirring up this unrest among the people to the point where their representatives took over the reins of government in Petrograd and Moscow. The masses, as much as they may rebel against the absolutism and oppression of the czar, believe he is Heaven sent and fear him still.

Lieutenant Swartzkopensky feels that this is the great day for Russia, that the happiness of their future is assured. As he expressed it, "the bells are ringing in Petrograd and Moscow today." He was an officer in the First regiment, the most loyal of the czar's own bodyguard, and in this capacity was intimately associated with the czar and family for a number of years. "The life of the czar has not been a brilliant one," he explained, "there is a very general feeling in the country that the czar is not the child of the murdered Rasputin, who for some time was most intimate with the czarina."

He has been lecturing throughout all parts of the country for some time, and has met with great popularity everywhere. But a few days ago he was invited by the legislature to speak to them at a special session called for the purpose of talking in White Water. He will be at the Baptist church tomorrow and Monday evenings for lectures. Tomorrow his lecture will deal with Leo Tolstoy and the religious question. On Monday will tell his own adventures.

Lieutenant M. Swartzkopensky is a big man, tall and wiry, with a fine steady voice and a perfect command of English. His message of humanity is one that is of interest to all mankind.

One "Kind of a Woman."

In one of the leading grocery stores a richly attired woman was overheard ordering a pound of tea. "The eighty-cent kind," she reminded the clerk.

"We want it good." She was turning away when she stopped suddenly and, attracting the attention of the clerk, pointed to a coffee can marked "Seventeen cents a pound." "Just give me a quarter of a pound of that, please," she said. "My husband is the only one in the family who uses coffee."

Friday's Markets.
Chicago, March 17.—Shippers were entirely out of the live stock trade yesterday owing to railway embargoes. Supplies were small and prices generally higher.

Best hogs sold 20c above Thursday's high point, or back to last week's record price of $15.10. Beef steers sold largely at 10¢ to 15¢ advance and sheep and lambs steady to 15¢ higher.

The spread in swine values was considerably wider, with packing droves at a range of $14.35 to $14.95. Speculators bought choice lots freely and carried over several thousand.

Practically all leading western roads refused to accept consignments of stock that would not reach their destination before noon today.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $14.87, against $14.74 Thursday, $14.90 a week ago, $8.51 a year ago and $6.83 two years ago.

Cattle Market Firm.

MYERS THEATRE.

The Garden of Allah, the stupendous production of wonderful stage settings, peopled with most exotic beings, who rival the wonder of the most beautiful scenes by their brilliant acting. "The Garden of Allah," will come to the Myers Theatre on Saturday, March 24, matinee and night.

The dramatization of his own novel by Robert Hichens with the help of Mary Anderson de Navarro, gives to the theatregoers a very interesting play. Every character in the play stands out as true to life in so far as concerns its native environment. Just the high spots in their lives are presented. Only the biggest moments that are in keeping with the vastness suggested by the author. Almost everyone of the beautifully written lines fly to climaxes, where the real acting of the players is brought forth and the idea of immensely staged scenes.

The theme is big—the tortures of a man's soul by memories of the great wrong he has done himself—and has done much to make this play such a great success. A less forceful story might have made the elaborate settings only just beautiful stage pictures. Instead, they remain frames, as they should, and really carry stage reality to the ultimate.

There are nine scenes. Each one is a masterpiece of its kind, showing the deep solitude of the desert, the close garishness of a native Arabian dwelling, the radiant radiance of Count Antonelli's garden, a sandstorm in the midst of the Great Sahara Desert, and other optical delights are among the wonders of the stage settings. One delirious and undoubtedly, they are triumphs of stagecraft.

MYERS THEATRE.

The Great "Daddy Long Legs" Coming to Janesville.

D. W. Haynes of New York, was in the city yesterday arranging for the engagement of the big "Daddy Long Legs" company which will occur at the Myers theatre on Thursday evening, March 22nd. The same company, which only recently closed a tour of twenty of the principal cities of Canada, including His Majesty's theatre at Montreal, and the Grand Opera House at Toronto, will be seen in Janesville. The company, which is the best of its kind, is now running successfully at the George M. Cohan theatre, New York. Also the great theatrical firm of Klaw & Erlanger of New York, who are interested with Mr. Miller, are watching the present tour of "Daddy Long Legs" and it continues as successful through Wisconsin as it has been through Canada and Michigan. They will send a line of their other big attractions over the very same territory the present season.

"Daddy Long Legs" is really one of the best of the plays now being shown in the city. It is a comedy, and a very good one. It is a comedy, and a very good one. It is a comedy, and a very good one.

If Janesville patronizes the visit of "Daddy Long Legs" sufficiently to insure him a fair price, Mr. Miller will send to the Myers theatre his other comedy, "Come Out of the Kitchen," which is now running successfully at the George M. Cohan theatre, New York. Also the great theatrical firm of Klaw & Erlanger of New York, who are interested with Mr. Miller, are watching the present tour of "Daddy Long Legs" and it continues as successful through Wisconsin as it has been through Canada and Michigan. They will send a line of their other big attractions over the very same territory the present season.

REVIEW OF WEEK'S MOVIE ATTRACTIONS AT LOCAL THEATRES

(By Mrs. Abbie Helms.)

Capacity houses at every performance was the record on Sunday at the Apollo. The feature, "The Moral Code," was a perfectly moral and all right one had a suggestion of vulgarity, were just "shows." They seemed to miss the elevating tone that some of the splendid productions of the week day programs had, and that seems such a pity, as the audience is made up largely of family groups, young couples, children, and the best is none too good for such a day.

At the Apollo the vaudeville was very good this last week; the roller skating was skillful and the two accordion players had an especially pleasing number. The little play for the Sunday program was "The Pendulum of Life," and showed alternate scenes in the life of a girl whose love affairs were interwoven. One in the life stories of two girls whose and the other a reformed thief of the underworld. The death of a girl, who was released from an incubus and gave release to the wealthy girl who was on the point of marriage with him.

At the Majestic a patriotic drama, "If My Country Should Call," was staged. A spoiled and petted young woman was anxious to prevent her lover from going to war with his country after enlistment. With the connivance of his mother, a drug is to be given him that will so lower his heart action that a noted specialist will pronounce his heart seriously affected. But a dream comes to this young woman before action is taken and she sees the evil consequences that might ensue, and the motto, "When the Country Calls Let All Be Ready," is decided to be the best for all time.

"The Gamble in Souls" at the Beverly had some wonderful effects of a tropical storm and some unique house-keeping equipments on a primitive scale. A parson and a woman with a past are cast away alone together on a tropical island. A seaman from a wrecked vessel is washed ashore and makes trouble. But he is thrown into the sea after a fair fight, by the pastor, who seems to have developed many of the traits of the cave man. And together the couple, forgetting the past, face the future and the approaching ship, which is to bear them away to a new life.

At the Majestic on Monday was seen the "Congo Boy," which has a realistic background of the great outdoor country of the northern woods. A logging camp with all its features is shown, and the logging crew are seen enjoying the spectacle of a circus being hooked around by the camp bully and his face scrubbed with snow. By wholesome living and faithful practice with the axe, the city chap, who by the way is a son of the boss (with) says of him that he isn't worth his salt, comes back into his youthful heritage of strength and vigor. After he has found proofs of the crookedness of his lumber agent at the camp, he proceeds to trim the camp bully with neatness and thoroughness. Then he and his "girl of the woods" are invited home by his father in a very characteristic telegram of welcome.

On Tuesday at the Beverly, Clara Kimball Young gave a very beautiful characterization of Tribby, and Wilton Lackaye was truly devilish as Swengler (Everybody was glad when he died off in the last act.) Good pictures were shown of Paris and the studio in the Latin quarter, while the Laird and Tally were exactly like the book illustrations. You rarely see a more beautiful screen picture than that showing Tribby singing before the opera house full of people to the accompaniment of the big orchestra.

On Tuesday at the Majestic was given a vivid presentation of that old and familiar story of Robinson Crusoe. At the children's matinee in the afternoon they were especially delighted with the goats, the parrot, the cat, and the dog with which Crusoe is always supplied. The acquisition of a very satisfactory "Friday" was received with much joy. The little war wolf, as played by Zoe Ray was a touching and appealing little character, and the tiny mite portrayed her part with the skill of a veteran. She was lost when her home village was destroyed in Belgium, and was restored to her wounded soldier father by his cock.

The anti-film "Is Any Girl Safe?" was presented at the Apollo on Tuesday. It was in the way of a warning to girls not to accept attention from strangers and showed some of the plausible excuses made by base young men to secure their company. The villain of the play had carefully helped to entice young girls in the downward path, until he found his own sister was in danger, and then he awakened to his own responsibility in the matter.

"The Witching Hour" at the Beverly on Wednesday is a complex play whose special theme is that of telepathy, or influence of mind over mind. It is a southern story with scene laid in Louisiana, at the time of the assassination of the state governor. The hero of the play is a gambler, who finds that he possesses a good deal of the psychic power, which he uses to secure the acquittal from the crime of murder of the young son of his old sweetheart.

At the Apollo on Thursday the picturesque background of a Dutch village and the care of three motherless little brothers brings out the pathetic possibilities of Mary Pickford in Hulda from Holland. After the little family make the trip across the water to join their uncle in America, he is knocked down by an auto and carried to a hospital unconscious. A kind boarding house keeper takes the family and cares for them. They are traced by the old uncle when he recovers by seeing a sketch of Hulda on the cover of a magazine. The picture was made by the son of a railroad magnate estranged from his father, because he wanted to be an artist. The son puts through a deal of the old man's in getting a right of way through the farm of the Dutch uncle, and so secures a return to favor and smiles Hulda, with the ready-made amily in the bargain. The little boys are perfect dears, especially the youngest, who was a natural comedian.

News Notes From Movieland

By DAISY DEAN.

A telegram from the late Charles Frohman, received by little Vivian Martin while reciting a piece in Sunday school marked the beginning of this popular girl's career. That is to say, the telegram was sent to Vivian's mother who rushed to Sunday school to take her little daughter on a sudden journey which necessitated quick action. The famous manager had seen Vivian in several amateur school plays and at his first opportunity sent for her to become a member of his roster.

In the little role of "Peter Pan" and supported by an all children cast Miss Martin met with instantaneous success and played the role before crowded houses for an entire season. Her success in "Peter Pan" made her much sought after by managers desiring a juvenile artist. Her first appearance in an ingenue part was in Charles Frohman's "Father and The Son" with William Crane. Next in "The Spendthrift" with Fred Thompson she scored individual honors. On Broadway in such popular hits as "Officer 666," "Stop, Thief," "The Marriage Game" and "The High Cost of Living" the actress came to particular prominence among metropolitan theatergoers.

It was while with the last mentioned play that Miss Martin received an attractive offer to star in motion pictures which she accepted. Her winsome personality and pretty petite manners proved her a welcome asset to the screen with the result that the screen has claimed her ever since. Her next picture will be released soon and is entitled "The Spirit of Romance."

IN VALPARAISO. Valparaiso (Ind.) club women picketed a movie theater showing a film they considered objectionable. They planned to notify the wives of all men who went in. Few men did. But women crowded the theater, though the picketers threatened to "tell their husbands."

VIVIAN MARTIN, whose next picture is "The Spirit of Romance."

The stand of Dr. Haiselden, Chicago hospital superintendent, in refusing to operate and save the life of a hopeless defective some time ago, thereby bringing the condemnation of a large part of the medical profession on his head, has been used for the basis of a eugenic film, preachment called "The Black Stork." It is gazzetted as a striking propaganda for better babies and is calculated to stir the interest of physicians.

Howard Hickman has again grown a mustache and a friend of his declares that it has a brisk and permanent look.

IMPORTANT. A gypsy fortune teller read the palm of Stuart Holmes. She wasn't very sunny about it.

He was dead, she believed, and though her heart had gone with him, she gave herself in soulless, legal marriage to another. But closely as she guarded the secret of her first marriage, treachery and a relentless fate laid bare the pitiful story. And with the revelation came the knowledge that her first husband, the man whose love she treasured above all else, lived and claimed her.

Gone was the secrecy, the pretense, the deceit. In its stead stood the glaring truth and outraged convention. Above the wreck of these lives could the call of a man to his mate find its answer?

HEART OF THE SUNSET

By REX BEACH

Author of "The Spoiler," "The Iron Trail," "The Silver Horde," Etc.

IT COSTS TOO MUCH TO LIVE AND YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO DIE.

SILLY SONNETS

"Don't you touch me!" she cried.

A flush was deepening Ed's purple cheeks; his voice was peculiarly shrill and throaty as he said: "The degree isn't entered yet, and so long as you are Mrs. Austin I have rights. Yes, and I intend to exercise them. You've made me jealous, and— He made to embrace her with his arms, and was half successful, but when Alaire felt the heat of his breath in her face, a sick loathing sprang up within her, and setting her back against the wall, she sent him reeling. Whether she struck him or merely pushed him away, she never knew, for during the instant of their struggle she was blind with indignation and fury. Profiting by her advantage, she dodged past him, fled to her room, and locked herself in.

She heard him muttering profanely; heard him approach her chamber more than once, then retire uncertainly, but she knew him too well to be afraid. Later that night she wrote two letters—one to Judge Edsworth, the other to Dave Law.

Jose Sanchez rode to the Morales house feeling some concern over the summons that took him thither. He wondered what could have induced General Longorio to forsake his many important duties in order to make the long trip from Nuevo Pueblo; surely it could be due to no lack of zeal on his (Jose's) part. No! The horse-breaker flattered himself that he had made a very good spy indeed; that he had been Longorio's eyes and ears so far as circumstances permitted. Nor did he feel that he had been lax in making his reports, for through Rosa he had written the general several lengthy letters, and just for good measure these two had culled up sundry imaginary happenings to prove beyond doubt that Senora Austin was miserably unhappy with her husband, and ready to welcome such a dashing lover as Longorio. Therefore Jose could not for the life of him imagine wherein he had been remiss. Nevertheless, he was uneasy, and he hoped that nothing had occurred to anger his general.

But Longorio, when he arrived at the meeting-place, was not in a bad humor. Having sent Rosa away on some errand, he turned to Jose with a flashing smile, and said:

"Well, my good friend, the time has come."

Now Jose had no faintest idea what the general was talking about, but to be called the good friend of so illustrious a person was flattering. He nodded decisively.

"Yes, beyond doubt," he agreed. The general laid an affectionate hand upon Jose's shoulder. "The first time I saw you I said: 'There's a boy after my own heart. I shall learn to love that Jose, and I shall put him in the way of his fortune.' Well, I have not changed my mind, and the time is come. You are going to help me and I am going to help you."

Jose Sanchez thrilled with elation from head to foot. This promise to be the greatest day of his life, and he felt that he must be dreaming.

"You haven't tired of Rosa, eh? You still wish to marry her?" Longorio was inquiring.

"Yes. But of course I am a poor man."

"Just so. I shall attend to that. Now we come to the object of my visit. Jose, I proposed to make you rich enough in one day so that you can marry."

"But first, wait!" exclaimed the horse-breaker. "I bring you something of value, too." Desiring to render favor for favor, and to show that he was fully deserving of the general's generosity, Jose removed from inside the sweatband of his hat a sealed, stamped letter, which he handed to his employer. "Yesterday I carried the mail to town, but as I rode away from Las Palmas the senora handed me this, with a silver dollar for myself. Look! It is written to the man we both hate."

Longorio took the letter, read the inscription, and then opened the envelope. Jose looked on with pleasure while he spelled out the contents.

When the general had finished reading, he exclaimed: "Ho! A miracle! Now I know all that I wish to know."

"Then I did well to steal the letter, eh?"

"Diablo! Yes! That brute of a husband makes my angel's life unbearable, and she flees to La Feria to be rid of him. Good! It fits in with my plans. She will be surprised to see me there. Then, when the war comes, and all is chaos—then what? I'll warrant I can make her forget certain things and certain people." Longorio nodded with satisfaction. "You did very well, Jose."

"How about that Guzman affair? You can't go much lower, Ed, and you can't keep her here with you."

"I can't keep you, eh?" he growled. "Well, perhaps not. I suppose you've got enough on me to secure a divorce, but I can air some of your dirty linen. Oh, don't look like that! I mean I didn't spend a night with David Law?" He looked at her unpleasantly, then followed a step as she drew back.

The latter leaned forward, his eyes bright. "That lady is rich. A fine prize, truly. She would bring a huge ransom."

This remark brought a smile to Longorio's face. "My dear friend, you do not in the least understand," he said. "Ransom! What an idea! He lost himself in meditation, then, rousing, spoke briskly: "Listen! In two, three days your senora will leave Las Palmas. When she is gone you will perform your work, like the brave man I know you to be. You will relieve her of her husband."

Jose hesitated, and the smile vanished from his face. "Senor Ed is not a bad man. He likes me; he—" Longorio's gaze altered and Jose fell silent.

"Come! You are not losing heart, eh? Have I not promised to make you a rich man? Well, the time has arrived." Seeing that Jose still manifested no eagerness, the general went on in a different tone: "Do not think that you can withdraw from our little arrangement. Oh, no! Do you remember a promise I made to you when you came to me in Romero? I said that if you played me false I would bury you to the neck in an ear-hill and fill your mouth with honey. I keep my promises."

Jose's struggle was brief; he promptly resigned himself to the inevitable. With every evidence of sincerity he assured Longorio of his loyalty, and declined the least intention of betraying his general's confidence. After all, the gringos were enemies, and there was no one of them who did not merit destruction.

Pleased with these sentiments, and feeling sufficiently assured that Jose was now really in the proper frame of mind to suit his purpose, Longorio took the winding trail back toward Sangre de Cristo.

CHICAGO & NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY Co.

March 16, 1917.

This Company has been notified through the National Conference committee, representing the railroads, that employees in yard and freight train service have been ordered to strike at 6:00 P. M. Saturday, March 17, 1917.

The facts in the present controversy are as follows:

The Brotherhoods asked that the railroads accept their interpretation of the Adamson Law as a final settlement and put it into effect without waiting for the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States as to the constitutionality of that law. This was declined and the following offer made by the railroads.

- 1ST. That if the Adamson Law is declared constitutional by the United States Supreme Court and the railroads were unable to agree with the Brotherhoods as to the application of the law that the points of difference be referred to the Eight Hour Commission, consisting of:
Maj. Gen. George Goethals, U. S. A., Chairman,
Hon. E. E. Clark, Member of the Interstate Commerce Commission,
Hon. George Rublee, Member of the Federal Trade Commission.
- 2ND. If the Adamson Law is declared unconstitutional that the railroads and the Brotherhoods join in asking the Eight Hour Commission to determine the whole controversy.
- 3RD. Any settlement to be effective January 1, 1917.

This was declined by the Brotherhoods and they advised progressive strikes in freight, yard and hostler service have been called beginning at 6:00 P. M. Saturday, March 17, 1917.

This Company will endeavor to operate its trains in accord with its charter requirements, with due consideration for the safety of the public and those loyal employees remaining in the service, and the assistance of State and Municipal Officers and loyal employees is requested in the protection of our efforts towards resumption of service.

ATTENTION IS DIRECTED TO THE FACT THAT THIS COMPANY'S DEALINGS WITH ITS EMPLOYEES THROUGH THE LONG YEARS OF ITS EXISTENCE HAVE ALWAYS BEEN ALONG LIBERAL LINES AND THAT IT NEVER HAS BEEN NECESSARY TO CALL STRIKES TO BRING ABOUT AN ADJUSTMENT OF WAGES OR WORKING RULES. Furthermore, this Company does not believe there is any justification for carrying out the present contemplated action. This is doubly true for the reason that this Company, in accord with its agreement with the attorneys representing the Government, will, if the Adamson Law is declared constitutional, pay immediately to the employees affected the amounts that would be due them from and after January 1, 1917, under that law, and if the Adamson Law is declared unconstitutional it has offered to submit the entire controversy to the Eight Hour Commission, of which General Goethals is Chairman, for adjustment, and to put into effect and to immediately pay the interested employees on the basis of that Commission's decision, beginning such payments with January 1, 1917.

Attractive Bungalows

"HOME OF CHARACTER" NO. 165

A Beautiful Bungalow —By John Henry Newson.

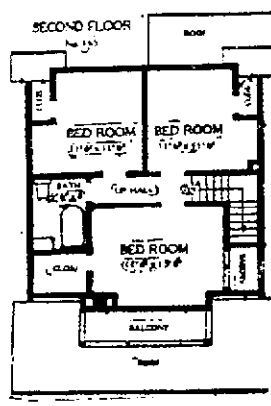

Another nifty bungalow that will catch the eye of the young couple or small family that has in mind a snug, cozy home at a moderate cost. The construction throughout will meet with your approval. The arrangement of both first and second floors leaves nothing wanting in the way of convenience.

The living room is of ample size and so shaped as to give every opportunity for fitting it out most attractively.

The dining room has windows both in the rear and side, giving a splendid view of such trees, flowers, shrubbery and garden as may be planned for the yard. It will be bright and cheery and in every respect a delight to the occupants.

Three bedrooms and a bath, all leading from a central hall, and plenty of closet space—can't help but appeal to the practical housewife. Details: Size 24x36 ft.; basement under entire house; no attic. Exterior, lap siding to top of 1st story windows, with shingles above; shingle roof. Interior, oak floors and trim in hall, living and dining room; yellow pine trim and floors in remainder of house. Heat—hot air furnace. Plumbing fixtures room; porcelain enameled iron. Cost—$2200 to $2700, according to locality and grade of materials. Inquiries of Gazette readers addressed to John Henry Newson, Homes of Character Dept., The Gazette, will be given Mr. Newson's prompt attention. Always give the number of the home concerning which inquiry is made, and, as the service is free, the inclosure of a stamp for reply will be appreciated.
